The emotional experience

While loudspeaker development is sometimes seen as a race to introduce novel features and technologies, Highland Audio remains focused on the things that are really important – accurate sound reproduction and the creation of an intense emotional response in the listener.

The Highland Audio range leapfrogs conventional design to deliver a quality of sound never previously achieved by speakers of this size. Highland Audio products are built to please both music lovers and design aficionados.

The three loudspeaker ranges - Seis, Aingel and Oran - and the subwoofer range - Dord - have been developed to satisfy the most demanding requirements in terms of appearance and integration, while keeping the essence of a flowing sound that absolutely immerses the listener into the music.

Highland Audio is one of the France's leading manufacturers of loudspeakers, exhibiting at What Hi-fi Sound & Vision for the first time this year. This is the first step in the introduction of this young brand that has been gaining a growing reputation in mainland Europe, over the last couple of years, for uncompromising quality and value.

What Hi-fi Sound & Vision Show Hot News!

Release of the new Seis line of loudspeakers!

Thanks to its compact dimensions and its appealing looks, you can position Seis speakers anywhere without detriment to your décor. The luxury piano black lacquer finish and the amazing performance of this micro size speaker satisfy both those who value aesthetics and music. Seis is so tiny and affordable that it becomes possible to create stereo or multi-channel systems everywhere.
